Sprint 3 Report – ScrumLite – A_squad

What things should we stop doing?

We should stop having so much not integrated with each other. There is not nearly enough pulling and committing. Our group doesn't even all use the same github because merging branches has been tedious but that has made things even worse. We all need to use the same github, get the database sorted out so branches can merge properly. We need to stop using multiple repos and merging things locally.

What should we start doing?

Communications still needs to be better. We constantly have team members communicating well but many members will go silent on slack for long periods of time. When this happens those members are not updating the others with what progress they are making.

What is working well that we should continue to do?

When we meet up things go much better. Communication is really good when that happens. Productivity seems to be much lower than as individuals but we have a good balance and need to keep that up. The work is spread out much better now. everyone has stuff to do and knows what they are working on. The sprint started very slow because the majority of the group was busy with other classes but now progress is really picking up because as a team we are more focused on the project.

What work was completed, and not completed?

We restructured the scrum board, added sprint reports, fixed multiple bugs, cleaned up various backend stuff, then adapted things to those backend changes, and added more to the aesthetics in the front end. We still haven't integrated many various things. The calendar, event notifications, TSR forms have not been completed either.

What is our rate of completing work?

The rate of completing work this sprint was solid in the first few days of the sprint and then completely halted for the majority of a week. After a bit of a buildup things are going very fast and if this rate continues, we anticipate things will be going very well.
